

Case study

Dog Friendly Cornwall and Nancealverne High School

Dog Friendly Cornwall had the great pleasure of working with some of the students from Nancealverne High School in Penzance, as part of the Special Partnership Trust. The students needed to arrange a supervised trip around Penzance that resulted in an article for the Dog Friendly Cornwall magazine. Students were tasked with arranging the trip, taking photos and they were ably supported by Frank, their Pug therapy dog. Dog Friendly Cornwall said their initial visit to brief the students was enjoyable and informative, adding that it was helpful that this took place at their school. The students and their teacher clearly understood the brief and produced an excellent article for us which was published in the magazine.

Dog Friendly Cornwall have these top tips for other employers: Good communication with the school is needed, particularly with the teacher as well as the students. It was helpful that we could take our magazines to the students so they had a clear idea of what they were producing. Avoiding the necessity for students to come to your own workplace was key, these students not only had access needs but they were more comfortable and confident in their own school environment. All in all, the school helped us to organise the activity very well.

Andrew O'Neill, a teacher at Nancealverne School said: "Thank you so much for putting this together and giving the students an opportunity to be represented in your magazine. The article looks great."

Naomi Thomson, Careers Lead at Nancealverne School also added: "I wanted to say a huge thank you for supporting the group who worked on their article for the magazine in Careers Focus Fortnight - they thoroughly enjoyed the work they completed, and were really proud of the article they produced for you!"

Thank you so much for putting this together and giving the students an opportunity to be represented in your magazine. The article looks great.

Andrew O'Neill

Teacher at Nancealverne School

The Careers & Enterprise
Company

2-7 Clerkenwell Green
Clerkenwell
London EC1R 0DE

careersandenterprise.co.uk

